Comparative profiling of human and mouse metallothioneins by immunoblotting. The metal-binding proteins metallothioneins (MTs) are an ubiquitous group of proteins that can be used as indicators of the toxicological and biological impact of heavy metals. Among these proteins, the human form (hMT) has been found to be a sensitive and specific biomarker for carcinogen exposure. However, information is lacking on the human MT isoforms, including their differential expression in normal tissues and in the presence of diseases. To fill this gap, we developed a protocol that allows fast and robust immunodetection of the human MT isoforms, in human and mouse tissues. The assay makes use of a panel of 7 anti-human MT monoclonal antibodies (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7) that differ for their epitope specificity and/or their affinity to the isoforms. The ability of these antibodies to recognize the human and mouse MT isoforms was tested on different types of tissues for which protein expression was compared with the expression levels of the corresponding mouse (m) forms. This study demonstrates the applicability of this method to the immunodetection of the human and mouse MT isoforms.Zdeněk Sova Zdeněk Sova (29 December 1843 – 31 January 1916) was a Czech painter and graphic artist.
